

INCLUSION DRIVES INNOVATION

MEET OUR FACILITATORS FROM SHE+ GEEKS OUT

FELICIA JADCZYK

Felicia is Co-CEO, Co-Founder, and Head of Training at She+ Geeks Out. Felicia Jadczyk is a recognized voice in the diversity and inclusion field. She worked in the technology industry for over ten years, specializing in the creation and development of innovative programs and solutions. She has extensive experience in providing strategic guidance for diversity, equity and inclusion across cross-functional teams and departments. Felicia heads up SGO's corporate programming on diversity, equity and inclusion.

Felicia received a BA in Comparative Literature (French, English) from Haverford College. She holds an MBA and a Masters in Information Systems from the Questrom School of Business at Boston University and is also the recipient of Georgetown University's Certificate in Strategic Diversity and Inclusion Management.

pronouns::she/her/hers

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/feliciajadczyk/>

RACHEL MURRAY

Rachel is Co-CEO, Co-Founder, and Head of Community at She+ Geeks Out, a company that provides holistic solutions for creating a more inclusive work culture. She+ Geeks Out does this by creating community for tech and tech-adjacent women, and by offering solutions for companies on diversity, equity, and inclusion. For most of her career, she managed websites for a variety of companies and organizations and managed teams both abroad and stateside. Since 2013, Rachel has run several businesses. In 2016, she transitioned to focus solely on She+ Geeks Out. Rachel runs tech, operations, and finance, and works closely with Co-CEO Felicia Jadczyk on strategy and on corporate programming on diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Rachel received her BA in History from Brandeis University. She also attended New York University for Archives and Public History before switching to the Internet and New Media industry in 1999, having worked for companies and organizations large and small, including Primedia and the World Health Organization. In 2018, Rachel completed her Certificate in Diversity and Inclusion from Cornell University. Rachel is also Technical Advisor to Opal Avenue, an online product discovery marketplace designed for specialty retailers.

pronouns::she/her/hers

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/rachelmurray/>

FATIMA DAINKEH

Fatima Dainkeh is the Learning & Development Manager for She+ Geeks Out, specializing in topics about racism, sexism and the intersectionality of social identities. Fatima has facilitated conversations and conducted trainings with leaders and members of schools, organizations and companies to help raise equity consciousness, while also providing knowledge, tips and strategies to help support institutional change. As a facilitator who believes in the power of sharing our stories, Fatima uses storytelling as a platform for individuals and groups to connect with one another. This form of facilitation has led Fatima to co-produce a short film and launch a photo story project about the experience of Black Mothers in Boston and beyond. Fatima believes that things can shift between individuals or within an institution when people can begin to connect and understand each other.

Fatima Dainkeh received her MPH in Community Assessment, Program Design, Implementation and Evaluation (CAPDIE) and Maternal and Child Health from Boston University School of Public Health, and earned her BA in Religious Studies and Anthropology from St. Mary's College of Maryland. In her free time, she is a storyteller and photographer.

pronouns::she/her/hers

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/fatima-dainkeh/>

ERIKA POWELL

Fostering transformation at the personal & professional levels as well as creating workplaces & cultures where employees thrive are at the heart of Dr. Erika Powell's work. For the past 15+ years, she has partnered with leaders and organizations to design & facilitate training, employee engagement, and team building solutions. Over the course of her career, she has led and consulted for number of initiatives related to leadership development, diversity and inclusion, employee engagement, effective communication, emotional intelligence, customer service, and technical and product/software training in a variety of industries, including corporate, higher education, and non-profit sectors, both nationally and globally.

She is bilingual in Spanish and holds a doctorate in Instructional Technology and Design from the University of Virginia, a MS.Ed in Intercultural Communication from the University of Pennsylvania, and a BA in Cultural Anthropology from Haverford College.

pronouns::she/her/hers

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/erika-powell-ed-d-1118876/>

This program is being offered by Kendall Square Association (KSA). KSA enables the future by connecting the people changing the world. We steward and advance this innovation ecosystem by providing critical connectivity and information sharing, as well as collective action to shape the future we all want to see.

INCLUSION DRIVES INNOVATION

DO YOU NEED ADDITIONAL INFORMATION?

Contact Carolyn Willander, Manager of Member Engagement at carolyn@kendallsquare.org.

